Comments: Here are my comments on Project 63783: Prescribed burns are ok, unless you can sell the timber - which is even better, however, whatever means is used to manage the forest the Sportsmen of Montana want all of the roads used to be kept open, what good is a forest if you cannot access it, how do we manage Montana's wildlife if we cannot get to them? The obliteration programs which have so foolishly been used to destroy sportsman access to Public Forests is/was one of the greatest wastes of tax payer dollars in American History. USFS advertisements encourage taxpayers to get out and use the forest. Taxpayers are not mountain goats or bears and it is NOT fun to recreate all day climbing over downfall. The prescribed fires are NOT going to remove downfall, especially downfalls caused by micro-bursts. If USFS is going to screw around trying to manage mother nature THEN at least leave the roads and trails so the public and enjoy the forest, afterwards. Wildlife enjoy roads just as much as recreationalists, if not more. Randy
