Comments: The integrity of Bob Marshall Wilderness is to protect the wilderness perspective of the park -- it is not to be involved or promote any specific group or entity.

The Reauthorization does not include specific information in the outfitter and guide permit such as the permitted service days compared to the actual use for each permit; annual inspections; public complaints/comments about the campsite or its outfitter/operator. NEPA documents and information on service levels are any allocations in the Wilderness Complex should be included. Each outfitter camp must have a campsite management plan.

Because there is so much daily usage in those specific areas that are most popular, a Categorical Exclusion should not be used by the Forest Service when renewing any outfitter permits.

This area is pristine and must be preserved in its present condition no matter how many groups want access. Limited access should be managed for the best interest of the area. So many special use outfitters for 10 years means there should be protection from commercial groups. The integrity of this Wilderness is the most important thing. We cannot replace this beautiful area. There should be some provision made for reviews should the occasion arise that specific goals to keep the area are not being met.
