Comments: The Granite State Division of the Society of American Foresters reiterates its support for the proposed Sandwich Vegetation Management Project. Implementing this project is important because it promotes species diversity and improves forest resilience in the face of a changing climate. Treating approximately 638 acres will result in about six million board feet of wood products that will be utilized by the local community and economy. We note that the Environmental Assessment and FONSI were responsive to earlier comments and now include an updated carbon assessment and scenery analysis.
