Comments: Re: Dixie-Comstock Community Protection Project

Please do not build roads to log this area, and please do log it. It does not seem like an emergency nor safety issue to me.

The area has already burned in a diverse, mosaic pattern, therefore, there is little threat from a new fire. This area is healthy. The lodgepole pine that dominated this forest is going through a fire cycle. This is normal. This is how that forest type has evolved.

Beside, logging after a burn does considerable damage to soils and watersheds.

The prevailing winds dictate that any fire would burn from outside the roadless area toward Dixie. Therefore logging the roadless area makes no sense.
