Comments: I would like to comment in support of the "potential grooming for winter recreation" as part of this project. Fat biking has become a popular winter activity for many avid cyclists, however it requires a hard packed/groomed surface. Allowing grooming on the first few miles of Junction Creek Road and in the campground would provide a Durango resource for this activity. The USFS allows grooming at the Boggy Draw Trail System (San Juan Forest Dolores Ranger District) and it has become a huge success. However, it is over an hour away from this proposed project. I am encouraging the Columbine Ranger District to follow suit and provide this service for the local Durango community.
