

Data Submitted (UTC 11): 3/8/2024 3:55:08 PM

First name: scott

Last name: brame

Organization:

Title:

Comments: Allowing private individuals to keep cabins in designated Wilderness should NEVER be allowed. The U.S. Forest Service must leave its policy unchanged and phase out ANILCA cabins, as was the original intent. Personal residences, however seasonally used, undermine the ecological integrity of designated Wilderness areas by disrupting animal interactions critical to finding habitat and modifying mating behaviour. Let Wilderness be Wilderness. Changing current policy would undermine ANILCA and the Wilderness Act.

Thanks for the opportunity to comment.