Comments: It is our generational duty to save the remaining Wilderness we have on this planet. It is being lost lost daily and the United States should stand as an example of protecting what is still left!

Cabins DO NOT belong in designated Wilderness. The U.S. Forest Service must leave its policy unchanged and phase out ANILCA cabins, as was the original intent. These cabins were never meant to persist in Wilderness, and to change this policy would undermine ANILCA and the Wilderness Act.

Please stand up to protect what we have left.
