

Data Submitted (UTC 11): 3/8/2024 4:31:42 PM

First name: Marsha

Last name: Stopa

Organization:

Title:

Comments: The U.S. Forest Service has a policy to leave designated wilderness in a wild state by policy. Cabins don't fit in that definition of designated Wilderness. The U.S. Forest Service must leave its policy unchanged and phase out ANILCA cabins, as was the original intent. Legacy cabins like these were never meant to persist in designated wilderness, and to change this policy would undermine ANILCA and the Wilderness Act.

Leave the policy intact.