Comments: I am opposed to removing restrictions from the ANILCA cabin permits, including and specifically how many times a permit for a cabin may be issued, and to whom. Cabins don't belong in designated Wilderness. The U.S. Forest Service must leave its policy unchanged and phase out ANILCA cabins, as was the original intent. These cabins were never meant to persist in Wilderness, and to change this policy would undermine ANILCA and the Wilderness Act. Thank you for considering my comment.
