

Data Submitted (UTC 11): 3/8/2024 5:44:26 PM

First name: Lisa

Last name: Stone

Organization:

Title:

Comments: I join all those urging the Forest Service to protect Alaska Wilderness.

Cabins by definition don't belong in designated Wilderness.

The U.S. Forest Service must leave its policy unchanged and phase out ANILCA cabins, as was the original intent. These cabins were unauthorized and never meant to persist in Wilderness, and to change this policy would undermine ANILCA and the Wilderness Act.

Please maintain the necessary policy to remove the cabins and protect Wilderness.