Comments: The ANILCA program was created to have the cabins in designated area phased out as the last member of the owner's family passed away. That was the intent of the act under which the cabins were allowed to exist. To subvert the original intent would be to deny the ANILCA Act ,as well as the Wilderness Act. The cabins were unauthorized to start with.

Please do not alter the original intent of the Act. Let the cabins deteriorate by natural forces or tear them down and remove any non-perishable building materials. To invalidate the original ANILCA Act and the Wilderness Act would be to do what the writers of the act foresaw and meant to prevent. To alter the Act would be to instigate what the writers intended to prevent and make a mockery of the validity of such writing. Thank you for your consideration.
