

Data Submitted (UTC 11): 3/8/2024 6:27:19 PM

First name: Kai

Last name: Martin

Organization:

Title:

Comments: Biodiversity and letting wilderness exist have been demonstrably shown as critical to preserving and enhancing our environment as well as part of Nature Based Solutions to support Climate Mitigation.

Cabins don't belong in designated Wilderness. The U.S. Forest Service must leave its policy unchanged and phase out ANILCA cabins, as was the original intent. These cabins were never meant to persist in Wilderness, and to change this policy would undermine ANILCA and the Wilderness Act