Comments: I am writing to say that I see no justification to change the 1980 Alaska National Interest Lands Conservation Act (ANILCA). It was designed to preserve and protect nationally significant public land in Alaska. Cabins don't belong in designated Wilderness. The U.S. Forest Service must leave its policy unchanged and phase out ANILCA cabins, as was the original intent. These cabins were never meant to persist in Wilderness, and to change this policy would undermine ANILCA and the Wilderness Act.
