

Data Submitted (UTC 11): 3/8/2024 7:59:22 PM

First name: John

Last name: Evey

Organization:

Title:

Comments: My comment relates to the ANILCA Cabin Policy.

I have friends and family members who live in Alaska and regularly avail themselves of wilderness opportunities in that state.

Grandfathering the use of cabins through the end of life of the last immediate family member of the original claimant is reasonable. Anything beyond that defies the definition of wilderness, since that does not include permanent human habitation. I cannot say it any more succinctly.

Thank you,

John Evey