

Data Submitted (UTC 11): 3/8/2024 8:17:54 PM

First name: M.E.

Last name: Eccles

Organization:

Title:

Comments: To whom it may concern.

Wilderness is just that. No human structures - permanent or otherwise - do not belong. Therefore, Cabins don't belong in designated Wilderness. The U.S. Forest Service must leave its policy unchanged and phase out ANILCA cabins, as was the original intent. These cabins were never meant to persist in Wilderness, and to change this policy would undermine ANILCA and the Wilderness Act.