

Data Submitted (UTC 11): 3/8/2024 9:08:11 PM

First name: Chris

Last name: Dresser

Organization:

Title:

Comments: This issue was resolved long ago, and should be considered settled... Cabins don't belong in designated Wilderness. The U.S. Forest Service must leave its policy unchanged and phase out cabins, as was the original intent. These cabins were never meant to persist in Wilderness, and to change this policy would undermine ANILCA and the Wilderness Act.