

Data Submitted (UTC 11): 3/8/2024 9:09:33 PM

First name: Anne Marie

Last name: Smith

Organization:

Title:

Comments: I have enjoyed hiking & backpacking in many Wilderness Areas, and believe they should remain wild places, without man-made structures like cabins.

Cabins don't belong in designated Wilderness. The U.S. Forest Service must leave its policy unchanged and phase out ANILCA cabins, as was the original intent. These cabins were never meant to persist in Wilderness, and to change this policy would undermine ANILCA and the Wilderness Act.