

Data Submitted (UTC 11): 3/8/2024 10:25:16 PM

First name: Randall

Last name: Smith

Organization:

Title:

Comments: I firmly believe that the Wilderness Act does not provide for living accommodations for humans within its boundaries. Ergo, cabins don't belong in designated Wilderness. The U.S. Forest Service must leave its policy unchanged and phase out ANILCA cabins, as was the original intent. These cabins were never meant to persist in Wilderness, and to change this policy would undermine ANILCA and the Wilderness Act to the detriment of all.