Comments: It's time to recognize we must stop endangering the future of true Wilderness areas, they are finite and Must be protected. Once it spoiled it's gone good.

With millions living in cities these Wilderness areas can bring people back to early man's nature, in the emotional experience of the wild spaces, the beauty of quiet with only sounds of nature, undisturbed. Building cabins that were set to have a limited time of use is reasonable, and should be followed. Development and the infrastructure that goes with it is killing nature planet wide. Please see the long road ahead, hopefully for many generations, to have the experience . Thank you
