

Data Submitted (UTC 11): 3/8/2024 11:22:42 PM

First name: Reid

Last name: Johnson

Organization:

Title:

Comments: As someone who has traveled around Alaska many times, including last summer, I don't believe permanent cabins belong in designated Wilderness areas. Permanent cabins go against the Wilderness Act. The U.S. Forest Service must leave its policy unchanged and phase out ANILCA cabins, as was the original intent.