

Data Submitted (UTC 11): 3/9/2024 12:04:57 AM

First name: Roxane

Last name: Clark-Murphy

Organization:

Title:

Comments: Cabins are not wilderness. Who knew? They are man made edifices that are a signature of the encroaching civilization. The Wilderness Act seems to want to protect those things that are indigenous to the region, keeping it an wilderness. Cabins are indigenous to absolutely nothing and have no real or historical purpose in protecting a wilderness area. Someone thinks they can make a buck or two, that's the only reason why they are there.