Comments: Please phase out ANILCA cabins. They don't belong in wilderness. Leave the Forest Service policy unchanged.

Directed by ANILCA, in 1987 the U.S Forest Service created a program that issued special-use permits for these unauthorized cabins. These permits were renewable every five years and nontransferable, terminating upon the death of the last immediate family member of the original claimant. The intent was to phase out these cabins, nowhere more important than in Wilderness, which is managed for its wildness.

Again, keep the Forest Service policy "as is" and phase out the ANILCA cabins, as originally intended.
