

Data Submitted (UTC 11): 3/9/2024 1:22:33 AM

First name: Jonah

Last name: Scott

Organization:

Title:

Comments: Pristine natural landscapes are becoming harder to come by in this country. These cabins were not meant to remain on protected lands as long as they have, and they certainly don't belong in designated Wilderness. The U.S. Forest Service must leave its policy unchanged and phase out ANILCA cabins, as was the original intent. To change this policy would undermine ANILCA and the Wilderness Act.