

Data Submitted (UTC 11): 3/9/2024 12:48:49 AM

First name: John

Last name: Sonin

Organization:

Title:

Comments: In 1980, Congress passed the Alaska National Interest Lands Conservation Act (ANILCA) to preserve and protect nationally significant public land in Alaska for present and future generations. By that time, unauthorized cabins had been constructed on federal lands, inside and outside areas ANILCA subsequently designated as Wilderness. We must maintain the Earth-system dynamic,

Our Mother Earth's Will for us is nurturing organic resplendence. Our will must reciprocate this energy/care to maintain the organic sustenance that She always provides us, as part of Her self-regulated, automatic feedback system, or Her autopoiesis. Contrarily, the automatic hybrids humans create, like corporations and keyboards or automated factory machines and power plants, or just our disruptive incursions wielding our hybrid machineries into Her system stasis, are elements not self-contained and have no sustaining feedback interaction for their components. We must constantly input these hybrids with energy for their usefulness...to humans!

It may have been as long ago as industrialization, but Reaganomics, when the supply-side economic theory took hold and inspired resource extraction non-reciprocal to Our Mother's natural reduction. Our Mother, Earth's Will for us is nurturing organic resplendence.

Rebalance the energy (any cash-money only signifies complex atomic construction - ENERGY!) of our Earth-system and, in so doing, you'll have the greatest impact in reconciling our climate cataclysm!

Consider ANILCA and keep or make the unsullied wilderness as wild as possible!