Comments: There appears to be a very large and very sudden influx of comments in opposition to this change submitted right before the deadline. Reading through their mostly copied and pasted "arguments" it is clear the vast majority of the people who submitted them have little to no ties to Alaska and have no knowledge or experience at these types of cabins. It appears that this issue has been picked up by an outside group who is opposing just to oppose. I implore the US Forrester Service to be aware of this and consider excluding their mass campaign comments when you are coming to a decision on this law change. This is a decision that will impact hundreds of families throughout Alaska - please take local feedback into more consideration than those who blindly copy and paste opinions on something that has no impact on their lives or the area that they live in.
