Comments: Merriam-Webster defines "wilderness" as "a tract or region uncultivated and uninhabited by human beings. (2) : an area essentially undisturbed by human activity together with its naturally developed life community. b. : an empty or pathless area or region." Obviously, cabins do not belong in designated Wilderness. The U.S. Forest Service must leave its policy unchanged and phase out ANILCA cabins, as was the original intent. These cabins were never meant to persist in Wilderness, and to change this policy would undermine ANILCA and the Wilderness Act.
