Comments: Let's not get cheeky with wilderness. Let's do what's right for wild America, not what's right for wealthy individuals or the special interests. You got it. I'm talking about cabins. Cabins don't belong in designated Wilderness. U.S. Forest Service, don't change your cabin policy. Phase out ANILCA cabins, as was the original intent. Manage wilderness according to the law. Don't get cheeky. These cabins were never meant to persist in Wilderness, and to change this policy would undermine ANILCA and the Wilderness Act.
