Comments: Count me in as a staunch advocate for the Draft Comprehensive Plan for the Arizona National Scenic Trail. Here's my take on why it deserves our full support:

The Arizona Trail isn't just a path; it's a narrative etched into the landscape, telling stories of resilience, diversity, and connection. For me, it's more than a trek; it's a journey through time, where every step carries the weight of history and the promise of adventure. From the rugged canyons to the whispering pines, the trail weaves a tapestry of experiences that resonate deeply within me.

Preserving the scenic resources along the Arizona Trail isn't merely about protecting natural beauty; it's about safeguarding the soul of the land. By expanding the buffer zone within the national trail planning corridor, we're not just drawing lines on a map; we're creating a sanctuary where nature can thrive, undisturbed by the encroachment of modernity.

Let's talk about legacy. By advocating for the acquisition of State Trust Lands, we're not just securing parcels of earth; we're investing in the future. These lands aren't commodities to be bought and sold but legacies to be preserved for generations yet unborn. Ensuring their protection is a testament to our commitment to passing on a world that's richer, wilder, and more beautiful than we found it.

A heartfelt thank you is in order to the Forest Service for extending this opportunity to have our voices heard. It's a reminder that democracy isn't just a political process; it's a dialogue between the people and the land. So, here's to continuing this conversation, to championing the cause of conservation, and to ensuring that the Arizona Trail remains a beacon of hope, inspiration, and wonder for all who walk its path.

In closing, count me as a steadfast supporter of the Draft Comprehensive Plan. Let's lace up our boots, roll up our sleeves, and together, let's write the next chapter in the story of the Arizona Trail—one of stewardship, resilience, and unwavering commitment to the land we love.
