Comments: It is horrendous that the Forest Service is considering logging in the Green Mountain National Forest. This Forest belongs to the people of the United States and we treasure and support this wilderness for its beauty, carbon sequestration potential, habitat for thousands of living beings, importance for the water cycle and weather, cleaning of our waters and air, meditative powers and more. Please do not allow for the rape of our forest, especially during this climate and biological emergency that we face. We face these crisis exactly because of these kind of man made disturbances with the balance of nature. It is time to stop and rethink what we are doing and make the changes we need to allow nature to do the work its done for millions of years.
