Comments: I am opposed to this project. Perhaps people management is more of the issue vs forest management. It's not just this harvest to take into consideration regarding green house gas release but the numerous ongoing projects of cutting millions of trees across the state. The war on trees is spread across the state for second homes- Lincoln, Franconia, North Conway/ surrounding communities for example. It also appears to be a noble idea to focus on diversity but the end product is another harvest down the road. Let's leave the forest alone, protect what's there. Keeping the area untouched to offset the green house gas already released due to development.
