Comments: Generally this plan is a good one. 1) However, the goals and objectives for stream maintenance are not what they could be. Independent organizations such as the Clark Fork Coalition have exceeded the goals you have set on their own. You can ask more of yourselves and you will find more willing partners. 2) The goals and objectives for maintaining stream flow are also vague and not aggressive enough. Especially when it comes to making plans for water storage in case of emergency. 3) Native species need more support in fact and in policy. You need to reduce the use of motorized recreation because the use of roads and off road vehicles seriously damages the habitat.
