Comments: Hello,

I am writing today to voice my opinion and concerns over the proposed action in the Lolo national forest travel plan revision. This revision is setting the ground work for how the national forest effects and complements the way of life in Montana. Far too often Montana residents are displaced and stepped on by out of state persons and interests.

Part of this Montana way of life is our strong desire to recreate in the outdoors. No one person or user Group should be shut out of the forests. yet over the years motorized users get kick out, of area they traditionally had access too. In this plan motorized use and creating space for all need to be a larger priority. Montana has enough wilderness that goes unassessed by most. We don't need to lock up more land, permanently changing how it can be used.
