Comments: I am writing in support of the Alternative to do nothing with the Telephone Gap lands. I have seen firsthand this summer the work of loggers "sustainably harvesting" trees and "improving wildlife habitat" on a tract near our home using equipment and practices that made mincemeat out of the forest canopy and floor. It strains credibility that our legislature is doing its utmost to address the real impacts of climate change on our State, yet the USDA Forest Service continues to entertain plans based on outdated science that would overturn the Telephone Gap woodlands' role as a significant "sink" for atmospheric carbon at a time when we most need to preserve such resources. Put me down as firmly opposed to any plan which does not leave the Telephone Gap lands untouched.
