Comments: I would listen to Vermont's Indigenous Community and Allies to extend public comment period in proposed Telephone Gap Forest logging plan. Vermont Indigenous have respected mother earth and never misrepresented human kind. I regret that most people have lost their way. Heavy trucks going through Vergennes polluting Vermont - 700+ per day over 35 years - with no solution. Impact to cultural sites must be realized. Review and comment process plus deadline must be extended. We, in our family, support protection and mother earth by indigenous people - that is their birthright. The US Forest Service may not be aware that indigenous people have long held insights and have a moral right and legal guardian rights which are respected.
