Comments: I have lived at Snoqualmie Pass since 1999. In that time I have had almost zero contact with the forest service that is supposed to manage my backyard. When I travel to other parts of the country, I see well managed forest service recreational opportunities. At Snoqualmie Pass it's like the forest service consistently does the bare minimum. This area is seeing a massive increase in visitation yet no increase in bathroom facilities, parking infrastructure or new trails. Removing another recreation area with no replacement for ten years is a poor plan. When is the forest service going to acknowledge that Snoqualmie Pass is an important recreational corridor and dedicate the funding and staff for a positive experience.
