Comments: This project will suck all the groundwater for miles around. Patagonia water levels dropping for years, to say nothing of contamination. Millions of gallons used by mine and recycling only 5000 gal a day. And the additional traffic of mine trucks ruining the roads and infrastructure of a small community. Not going to be much of a town left after the mine starts to operate. And when they leave pollution everywhere like most mining operations do with no recourse to the folks who live here.
