Project: Jellico Vegetation Management Project

To whom it may concern,

I am writing to express my strong opposition to the proposed Jellico Vegetation Management Project. As a concerned citizen, I am deeply troubled by the prospect of logging 10,000 acres of mature and old-growth forest in southeastern Kentucky.

Old-growth forests play a crucial role in supporting biodiversity, sequestering carbon, and maintaining ecosystem resilience. The destruction of these invaluable ecosystems would have devastating long-term consequences for both the environment and local communities.

I urge you to reconsider this project and explore alternative strategies that prioritize conservation and sustainable management practices. Preserving our remaining old-growth forests is essential for the health of our planet and future generations.

Thank you for considering my comments.

Sincerely,

Milady Meadows
