Comments: My residence is located on Emby Moses Road. From the map I saw the mountains behind my house is going to be clear cut, when you clear cut a steep mountain like that it causes mudslides. The mudslides will run over onto my property. We have already had problems with high water in that area. Recently last year, a trailer was actually swept off its foundation and pushed into the creek. Water from the watershed from the mountain is turned into that creek running less than 30 feet away from my house. With the increase of water shed, my residents could be in danger of having the same thing happen to it. I have a 7 month old grandson that stays with me. In the other trailer that got swept into the creek the children were in small but old enough to move around. Lucky the rescue team was able to get them out without anyone dying. I'm worried if the same fate was to happen to my residence, if my 8 month old grandson could get out or to safety until we were able to get to him. The last thing you should have to worry about when you put a child to bed is if a flash flood is going to come and him possibly not making it out. I know the government just wants to money from logging, but I'm hoping its not putting me and family in danger to get it. The water and mudslides aren't going to stop at the Daniel Boone national forest property line. Please consider the people who have property that joins it.
