Comments: I am four option number two . I do not agree with clear cutting. If you're worried about the health at the forest what God put there, mother nature will take care of. It doesn't need your help. Because this is not helping, this is destroying. However, if you feel the need, Only cut what you need, not what you want. Use mules like they did years ago, less damage. We don't need the wild. Life run off into the neighboring communities to either kill or be killed. We do not need mud slides. Visitors come into this area to see the beauty of these mountains. Not the Nastiness. Of them. It's the first thing you see when you come down. Jellicoe mountain, when you come from 92, it's beautiful, leave beauty alone.
