Comments: Logging in our area has destroyed secondary roads and smaller roads not often traveled but by the people whom reside in those areas. Not only the roadways being destroyed mudslides and flooding always becomes a issue come spring. No matter what they do the waterways will drain the way they have for thousands of years. Redirecting any waterways which will come up will destroy property and roadways. Speaking of waterways what happens if you run up on hellbenders? They are a protected species. I do not agree with any logging of Jellico Mountain
