Comments: This sounds like a solid proposal, based on the Summit Daily article and the Notice of Proposed Action. It seems that the operator is already sensitive to the environment with access by foot and a small imprint of the storage bin. Having managed forest minerals on the Sedona Ranger District and the Cibola National Forest, I am aware of the constraints of the Mining Act. Even though I do not personally like the thousands of tailing piles dotting the west, I understand that this is a valid use of National Forest System lands.
