Comments: While the world, and US government is screaming about global warming this company is going to ruin a large swath is Arizona sky islands. Glad to hear they have been "monitoring" the wildlife and biodiversity. That doesn't mean they care about the impact they are having on the environment and the Arizona residents they are impacting. We will lose the diverse environment that makes this area special. The dust they will be creating is a health issue. Santa Cruz county is already declared to have some of the worst air quality in the nation and this is only going to add to the problem. Then there is the issue of the water it will require to operate. If water is a precious commodity in every state, but especially so in a desert state like Arizona. We need it to survive. After they strip the hills of their precious minerals and bleed the aquifer dry they will pull out and let the US government and Arizona residents deal with the aftermath. Please stop this mine!
