Comments: I have ridden Wolf Creek for the last 5 years and is a long history of winter recreation on the Forest without any conflict between uses during the winter months and at elevation with the snow depth that the Mountain / Forest receive's Snowmobiles have minimal impact on the forest or to the wildlife. Exclusionary Corridors around Continental Divide Trail and several others in several places is not beneficial and will destroy the sport in and only hurt the Wolf Creek surrounding communities of South Fork, Pagosa Springs and Del Norte. We in the snowmobile community are stewards of the back country and only aim to protect the areas that we travel. Please do not limit our access to Rio Grande National Forest with limiting our access and making exclusionary corridors because of your Over Snow Travel Management Plan.
