Comments: The Biden Administration's new Old-Growth Amendment Draft Environmental Impact Statement (Draft EIS) predictably endorses commercial logging in old-growth forests, under the guise of wildfire management and forest health. This draft allows the logging of mature and old-growth trees, contradicting extensive scientific research, including studies by the U.S. Forest Service itself, which show that such practices worsen wildfire risks. Ignoring pleas from over 200 scientists, this plan prioritizes logging over genuine forest protection, putting these vital ecosystems and surrounding communities at greater risk. Go with the science and not commercial interests. The plan needs major modification to truly protect Old-Growth forests and the wildlife that calls them home.
