Comments: I am in favor of the tree thinning at Evans Creek as long as the trails and roads are returned to the current existing condition. Most if the work projected in the plan is good. As for the bridges across the Carbon River, they do access Copley lake and other trails. There are alternative routes that cross private land that do access these trails and recreational areas. I would hate for the bridges to be washed out and have the access to this area for recreational be cut off. I would like to have the road to the Carbon glacier repaired to Ipsut creek campground so that it is usable again.Derrick Clark
