Comments: I write in full support of this project. I believe that this trail system will improve outdoor access to both local community and to visitors from around the region. Cycling has become a very popular recreational activity across the state of Arkansas and around the country. This trail system could make Mena a destination for cyclists, which would boost both local and state economies. Additionally, increasing outdoor access typically also expands peoples' appreciation for nature, which leads to better conservation and preservation of natural resources. Again, I think this is a remarkable opportunity and that the project should absolutely move forward.
