Comments: Please do not restrict the areas where shooting is allowed. I live in Lone Tree and already have to drive pretty far into the woods (out of Douglas County) to shoot. With all the anti-gun rules of Denver, there isn't many places nearby and further restricting it will just punish the folks who follow the rules and clean up after themselves already. I always bring my own approved targets and practice safety when shooting on public lands and leave the location cleaner than I found it. The alternative to public lands are paying anywhere from $20-30 just to rent a lane in an indoor range and they do not allow for any kind of training beyond firing at paper targets while standing. Opening dedicated ranges will help but please leave the option for responsible people to continue using public land for shooting.
