Comments: I just heard about this initiative with multi treatments of logging rx burning. I for one understand the importance of the value at risk of our watersheds but also have an understanding that this project is designed to protect and improve our habitat and ecosystem.

Long gone should be the days where the public turns their back on forest management with prescribed fire. Logging and fuels manipulation, although is not a natural process, does return veg stands back to class 1 (preeuro) conditions.

I am pro burning because it simulates this natural process, creates an opportunity to earn trust with public, and protects our values at risk. If anything it trains us to get used to seeing and smelling smoke so we all can be more inquisitive so we can begin to understand the WHY in these projects.

I am in full support of the project and knowing that FS wide they are 96% successful in implementing without escapes, we should all have confidence in those numbers. Thanks for what you do.
