Comments: I own land in the Castle Mountains, and would like to voice my very strong support of the Bonanza Project planned in the Castle Mountains. With all the beetle kill and dead fall trees completely covering the majority of the castle mountain range, the entire area is a tinderbox. The potential for a devastating fire is astronomical. Having the Castles responsibly logged and work done to restore this mountain range is the only way, in my opinion, to avoid disaster. Additionally, the amount of lumber that will be logged and utilized to sustain Montana's logging industry, and boost the local economy makes this project a win for all involved, including the wildlife and ecosystem.
