Comments: I believe, Old- growth has hindered the forest health and puts millions of people at risk of injury and or death.

Old-growth is ok in certain parts of specific forests, but carte blanche is ridiculous and cost U S citizens probably billions of dollars annually.

Many naive citizens are "led to believe" how important old growth forests are for wildlife and carbon sequ., much to the contrary, healthy, sustainably managed forests are protectors of wildlife, carbon, wildfire intensity and others.

Another question, why does the forest service lose money on a timber sale, when every other governmental agency, county, state, private, corporate usually produces revenue in the black...
